DISTILLERIES AND GROG SHOPS.

I have a good deal of a certain sort of kind feeling for wicked men. I am sorry for them in one way, I have sympathy with them, I would serve them if I could. I would do all in my power to make them better. But on the other hand, if they assume superiority over me, and tell me to hold my peace, I have forty men's spirit of indignation roused in me. The idea that these very men I know are exhaling from Stygian morasses a pestilential miasm which is poisoning my children and my neighbors children—the idea that they should arrogate superiority over me, and tell me to hold my peace, makes my blood boil. If a man should open a stye under the heights, the signature of all men in the neighborhood would be obtained, declaring it a nuisance; and it would be abated quickly. When it is something that smells in the nose, men understand rights and duties, and they say, 'No man has any business to create a nuisance in our midst;' and they resort to measures for compelling the offender to remove that by which he offends.

Let a man start a mill for grinding arsenic, and let the air be filled with particles of this poison, and let it be noticed that the people in the neighborhood are beginning to sneeze and grow pale, and let it be discovered that this mill is the cause, and do you suppose that he would be allowed to go on grinding? No. Men would shut up his establishment at once. And yet men open these more internal mills of utter destruction—distilleries, and wholesale and retail dens for liquor; and you can mark the streams of damnation that flow out from them. One man is getting carbuncles: another is becoming red in the eyes; another is becoming irritable, and losing his self control, another is being ruined, both in body and mind, multitudes of men begin to exhibit the signs of approaching destruction; and the cause of all this devastation may be traced to these places where intoxicating drinks are manufactured and sold. You would not let a man grind arsenic; but you would let a man make and sell liquor And I say that you have no right to suffer to exist in community these great centers of pestilential influence that reek and fill the moral atmosphere with their poison. In those sections of the west where chills and fever prevail, counties combine and drain the swamps from which it comes. And in cities and thickly settled places, you have a right to suppress distilleries and grogshops. You have not only a right to do it, but as you love your country, your city, your fellow men, your children and your own selves, it is your duty to do it.

TO MAKE A PLACE PROSPEROUS.

There can hardly be a better sign of prosperity in a community than a disposition to help one another, to lift a little when a neighbor's wheel gets stuck in the mud.

I know of a place where a man's barn, with all his winter store of grain and hay were consumed in the night. Immediately all the men of the country side mustered and hauled up timber for a new barn and then a big raising came off. After that the sound of twenty or thirty hammers were heard until the whole barn was shingled. But their deed of kindness was not done yet; one and another offered to take a head or two of his stock and winter them, thus greatly reducing his loss, and assuring him of the more durable riches of brotherly love and neighborly good will. No one can compute in money the value of one such example of noble liberality in a community, especially upon the young. Where this spirit prevails there is sure to be progress in their infancy. People will like to come and settle in a place which will bear such a good name. Now, if you desire to see your place growing a popular one do what you can to show yourself a good neighbor, especially to those that need a little help.

If a man starts a tinshop or a blacksmith shop in your little place, don't harness up and drive five miles to buy your pans and get your horses shod, just because you have been in the habit of doing so. Patronize the new comer whenever you may want anything done in this line. Speak encouragingly to him, and well of him, to your neighbors. Little words of approval or censure go a long way and when you have spoken them you can never call them back.

Help the sick, especially if they are poor, for poverty and illness are indeed a heavy burden. Perform all acts of loving charity which fall day by day in your path, remembering who it is that has said. 'Ye shall in no wise lose your reward.'

An experienced boy says he regards hunger and the chastening rod as about the same thing. They both make him holler.

A CEYLONESE STORY.

Long years ago, a king—or, as some say, a very wealthy man, but it does not matter which, though a king sounds better—had an only child, a daughter, the heiress of all his wealth, who could not, or would not speak. He tried all means to cure her but in vain. At last he sent forth a proclamation that whoever, being of fitting degree, could restore speech to his daughter, should marry her and eventually be lord of all her father's wealth. Many tried but all failed. At last a prince who had a magical gift, that of causing things inanimate to talk with him, came forward, and was admitted to the hall where the princess was. He spoke to her, and tried to induce her to speak, but answer he got none!

Now, a lamp was hanging in the hall, and to it the prince good humoredly addressed himself. 'Lamp,' said he, 'I will tell you a story.'

'Say on,' said the lamp.

'Well,' went on the prince, 'four travelers—a carpenter, a painter, a cloth merchant, and a jeweler—set out on a journey. By and by they came to a rest house, halted there, and prepared their food. The keeper of the rest house had laid down on the floor a log of wood, very suitable for carving. The carpenter, seeing this, pulled out his carving gear, and carved the log into the shape of a woman, life size, and exquisitely beautiful. The painter next took his brushes and colors, and painted the figure until it shone as brilliantly fair as a goddess. Then the cloth merchant opened his packages, chose the finest silks and embroidered robes, and dressed the figure in his choicest drapery. The jeweler took gems, ear rings, necklaces, and all such things, and bedecked the figure with them. Last of all, the figure was endowed with life. I do not take on me to explain how that came about but it was the fact!'

'No more do I,' said the lamp, 'but pray go on. I hate digressions.'

'When,' continued the prince, 'that exquisitely beautiful being burst into life, all four fell violently in love with her, and each wished to make her his wife.'

'Why, I shaped that matchless figure,' said the carpenter.

'And I bestowed on her that blooming complexion,' retorted the painter.

'And I robed her,' exclaimed the merchant.

'But what are your choicest robes to the costly gems which were my gift? A woman is of little account without jewels!' cried the jeweler.

'Thus they went on clamoring and disputing. Now, O lamp! who was to be declared the rightful owner?'

First the lamp said one and then another, giving reasons—and whatever the lamp said, the prince contradicted. The dispute waxed hot and furious, but seemed never to come nearer to an end.

The princess heard all the dispute, and held her peace a long time. At last she could bear to keep silent no longer. So she cried: 'You are both silly! The true owner was none of the four, but the keeper of the rest house, for to him the wood she was made of belonged!'

'Ah! yes,' said the prince, 'you are in the right, my princess! And now that you have spoken, let me claim my reward and take you for my wife!'

So they went before the king, who was enchanted with the cure and they were married straightway and lived happy ever afterward—at least it is said the princess never gave her husband any cause, after marriage, to reproach her for too persistently holding her peace.

THE WRONG MAN.

The other morning an elderly gentleman started to walk up the C. & P Railroad track from Bellair to West Wheeling. In the neighborhood of Whisty run he came across three rough looking young men, who were sitting on the end of the ties of the road taking consolation and fusil oil by word of mouth out a gallon jug. As our friend was passing them, one of the three, a youth of about eighteen, hailed him in the following manner:

'Here, daddy, come and get a drink, won't you.

The young man was informed by the old gentleman that drinking benzine was not one of his accomplishments; but the nearly intoxicated youth was not to be put off in that way.

Advancing with a volley of oaths flying from his mouth, he informed the old gentleman that he must drink or take a whipping

Just as the young ruffian got within striking distance of our old friend, the latter drew a revolver, which he cocked and held full in the face of the drunken rowdy. To say that the rough stopped doesn't half tell it. He could not have stopped more suddenly if lightening had struck him.

'Don't shoot, old fellow,' he stammered, as he recovered from his astonishment.

'I meant it all in friendship.'

'Confound your friendship!' shouted the gentleman, now thoroughly angry. 'Go get that jug and bring it here, or I will blow you to kingdom come in a minute.'

The completely cowed ruffian obeyed. As he brought the jug full of liquor, the old man said:

'Now break it on that railroad track. Break it!' he shouted. 'Break it quick or—.'

Before he had time to finish the sentence he was uttering, the jug was in a thousand pieces.

'Now you infernal, darned mean cuss, get down on your knees and apologize, or I'll make your head look like a pepper box top.'

The fellow hesitated; but looking into the old man's eyes, saw that he meant business, and dropping on his knees in the dirt he abjectly apologized for the outrage.

Thinking him sufficiently punished, the old man walked peacefully on his way. As he passed up the track he heard one of the fellows halloo out to the other:

'I say Bill, that ain't the man you was looking for, is it.'

A FEW WORDS ON MONKEYS.

The true monkeys are smaller and more numerous than the apes and baboons. Those with the long tails and of common appearance may be inhabitants either of the Old or New World, while those with the prehensile tails are found in the never ending forests of the New World. The larger class of monkeys exhibit a very striking affection for the young, indeed, both male and female seem never to tire of fondling their young ones—instructing it with much assiduity and often correcting it severely, if stubborn and disinclined to profit by their example. They may frequently be seen handing it from one to the other, and when the female has done showing her regard, the male takes his turn in the work of affection,

One of the smallest of the monkeys is the Marmozet, called, also, Ouistiti (Facchusvulgaris), which inhabits Brazil, the body measuring not more than seven inches, though the tail is nearly a foot in length. The weight of this pretty little animal is about six ounces, and, like others of its kind, it lives, not only on vegetables, but also on insects, the eggs of birds, and even, it is said, small birds. The face is almost naked, of a swarthy flesh color, with a white spot above the nose. The long, bushy tail is annulated with ash colored and black rings alternately. The nails are sharp, and the fingers resemble the feet of a squirrel. This monkey is an engaging, curious little creature, and is frequently kept as a pet. Its twinkling black eyes are set off by a tuft of long, white hair behind each. Marmozet monkeys are generally very attentive to their young. A pair of them which were kept in Paris many years ago, had three young ones, the first born in Europe. The mother was rather careless, seemed to get tired of carrying it about; and when this was the case she would hold out the the little creatures to their father, or would playfully put them on his back. The male monkey generally took them in his hands, and nursed and played with them until they became very restless for food when he gave them back to their mother.

The Lemurs and the Mongoos may be regarded as the connecting link between the monkeys and the true quadrupeds. They have been called lemurs or ghosts, from their noctural habits. They pass a considerable portion of the day in sleep, rolled up like a ball with their long tails passed between their hind legs and twisted round their necks. They live in troops more or less numerous, like the apes and the monkeys. on trees, and they climb with great quickness, and leap with so much force as frequently to rise ten feet at a single bound. They feed on fruits, roots and other things, and they convey the food to their mouths with their hands, like the apes. They are all inhabitants of Madagascar, but allied species are also found in Bengal and and other parts of Hindostan, in Ceylon, and Java.

It may be well to put the reader on his guard as to some of the marvelous accounts of the doings of the monkey family which have been given by travelers, such as the following: That troops of the pigmy ape assemble together, and defend themselves from the attacks of wild and carniverous beasts in the desert by throwing a cloud of sand behind them, thus blinking their pursuers and facilitating their escape. If this extraordinary feat on part of the pigmy ape were really true, it would argue a faculty in the monkey family far surpassing that of instinct. But who ever saw monkeys in a sandy desert? That apes armed with clubs assault men in the forests; that apes throw fruit at stated distances from orchards into each other's hands; that apes build habitations for themselves; that monkeys preach in the wilderness; that the Pata, or red monkey (perhaps the most wary of all the family, and ever on the alert to escape when man approaches), break off branches and throw them at travelers as they pass under the trees, and frequently with so sure an aim as to annoy them not a little; that other monkeys act the part of skillful surgeons, by stopping hemmorrage and by subduing inflamation these are amusing fables.

It any one should desire to capture a wild young monkey a month or so old to educate as a pet, the only chance of success is to shoot the poor mother; for when stationary, as when in motion the baby monkey adheres to the mother's body so closely that it requires a keen and an accustomed eye to distinguish it. The mothers may be aptly styled a kind of moving cradle, their fur, or coat of hair, serving as a blanket for the little ones in infancy. A fowling piece should not be used, for nine time times out of ten the wounded parent would stay in clefts of trees, where she would perish ultimately with her progeny. An arrow poisoned with wourali is the surest weapon, and, with a good aim, in a few minutes the monkey will be lying dead at the feet of the shooter. The wourali poison entirely destroys all tension in the muscles; but a gunshot wound, even though it be mortal, has not such immediate effect. Thus, by using poisoned arrows, an ill fated animal's existence is not prolonged under the painful anguish of a deadly gunshot wound.—Harper's Weekly.

HANDWRITING.

To write an ugly hand may be called a misfortune, if you will; but to write an illegal hand is a crime against society. Every one who chooses can form each letter distinctly, can make a difference between an n and a u, between e and c; can dot i's and cross t's. Therefore, no educated person who wishes for employment as an amanuensis or copyist can be excused for writing badly. He ought to be able to write letters and copy manuscripts clearly and legibly; if he cannot, he has only himself to blame. To those who feel their deficiency, and wish to improve, here are a few hints. Write two or three copies every day, in a large hand. Look at your copy upside down, when the turns of the letters should appear as well shaped as when you looked at them the right way. Thus let the letters nu, when turned upside down, make a good ni, only wanting the addition of the dot to the i. Never leave an i to be dotted or a t to be crossed till you have finished the line or sentence. Dot your i's and cross your t's when you finish the word, at latest. Remember that the lines of legibility in writing, as of beauty in nature, are all curved. Angular writing is never pretty, seldom legible. Never indulge in making overlong tails to g's, q's, y's, or everlong heads to l's, t's, and similar letters, running them into the upper and lower line. Indulge not in turns, curls or flourishes of any kind. Study to make your writing compact without straggling. To write rather upright than otherwise contributes to the union of compactness and freedom. Never imitate another person's writing under the plea that it is prettier than your own. Many a person has spoiled a good handwriting in this way. Let your handwriting form itself from free bold copy writing, and let it be, thoroughly your own. Cultivate the power of writing quickly, because it will probably be necessary to you—certainly an advantage. But eschew hurry. Legibility must never be sacrificed for speed —Victoria Magazine.

THE LIGHTENING SAW.

Our attention has been called to the great saving of labor and wood by the use of "Boynton's Linghtening Saw," which is advertised in another column. And in this connection copy the following from the Kansas City Journal:

"We witnessed, a few days since, a wonderful performance with Boynton's Lightening Saw, at the office of that gentleman, No. 80 Beekman street; New York. Who has not heard of the Lightening Saw? Those who have not, and who are at all interested in the subject, should have seen what we saw the other day What was it? We'll tell you reader. We saw two men, armed with one of Boynton's Cross cut saws, cut off an oak log 9 inches in diameter, with the bark all on, by four rapid strokes, or in less than four seconds of time! We than saw them remove the handles from the saw, and grasping the greasy, naked blade between their thumbs and fingers, they cut off the same log in seven seconds by the watch! Such dispatch in sawing was never attained by any but the Lightening saw. They are so constructed that they cut both ways by direct action, or rather plow their way through the log, their teeth being like ploughshares, pointing front and rear. There can be no question but that the Lightening Saw cuts twice as rapidly as the old style of saw, and it runs so easily that boys can work it, Mr. Boynton has applied the same blade to the common buck and hand saws, and offers the lightening saw in blades from thirty inches to ten feet in length. In its present form, the lightening saw is so greatly improved as to be practically a new invention. All its teeth are cutting teeth, of even length, cutting and clearing by projecting faces, and are as simple as hand saw teeth to sharpen. A man of ordinary muscle can cut a cord of wood in two hours with Boynton's Lightening Buck Saw.

AN ITEM FOR BOYS.

It is not necessary that a boy who learns a trade should follow it all his life. Gov. Palmer, of Illinois, was a country blacksmith once, and began his political career in Macoupin county. A circuit judge in the central part of Illinois was once a tailor. Thomas Hoyne a rich and eminnet lawyer of Illinois, was once a book binder. Erastus Corning, of New York, too lame to do hard labor, commenced as a shop boy in Albany. When he applied for employment first, he was asked: 'Why, my little boy, what can you do?' 'Can do what I am bid,' was the reply, which secured him a place. Senator Wilson, of Massachusetts, was a shoemaker. Thurlow Weed a canal boat driver. Ex-Governor Stone, of Iowa, was a cabinetmaker, which trade the late Hon. Stephen A. Duglass also worked at in his youth. Large numbers of men of prominence now living have risen from humble life, by dint of industry, without which talent is as gold coin on a barren island. Work alone makes men bright, and it does not alone depend on the kind of work you have to do whether you rise or not; it depends on how you do it.

MECHANICAL SKILL OF THE CHINESE.

The most remarkable evidence of the mechanical science and skill of the Chinese at this early period is to be found in their suspended bridges, the invention of which is assigned to the Han dynasty. According to the current testimony of all their historical and geographical writers, Sangleang, the commander of the army Kaoustsoo, the first of the Hans, undertook and completed the formation of roads through the mountainous province of Shenshi to the west of the capital. Hitherto its lofty hills and deep valleys had rendered a communication difficult and circuitous. With a body of 100,000 laborers he cut passages over the mountains, throwing the removed soil into the valleys, and where this was not sufficient to raise the road to the required height he constructed bridges which rested on pillars or abutments. In another place he conceived and accomplished the daring project of suspending a bridge from one mountain to another across a deep chasm. These bridges which are called by the Chinese writers, very appropriately, flying bridges, and represented to be numerous, at the present day, are sometimes so high that they cannot be traversed without alarm. One still existing in Shensi stretches four hundred feet from mountain to mountain, over a chasm five hundred feet. Most of these flying bridges are so wide that four horsemen can ride on them abreast, and baulstrades are placed on each side to protect travelers. It is by no means improbable that, as the missionaries to China made known the fact more than a century and a half ago, the Chinese had suspended bridges, and that many of them were made of iron, the hint may have been taken from these for similar constructions by European engineers.—Scientific Press.

PAINLESS EXTRACTION OF TEETH

A physician in Dental Cosmos, observes that he has for thirty years adopted the plan of obtunding or benumbing the extremities of the temporal nerves, for painless extraction of teeth from their sockets, with complete success, never having used or countenanced the exhibition of chloroform, ether, or nitrous oxide gas for this minor surgical operation. The benumbing, or mechanical anæsthesia, of the temporal branches of the nerves, obtunds the whole nerve to a sufficient extent to allow the teeth to be removed, with sensation so slight that, if not attending a special surgical operation, it would scarcely be noticed by the patient. One of two modes may be adopted. By application of ice to the temples, which is somewhat distressing, the sensation of cold striking deeply. The other to which he gives the preference, is done by an assistant, with each of his middle fingers pressing with persistent firmness into the fossa or hollow behind the ridge of the temporal bone, which forms the external bone circle orbit of the eye. Pressure for one minute is all that is necessary. The practice is as simple as it is harmless, and leaves no after unpleasant sensation to annoy the patient. It is an instinctive method often adopted by people themselves, who press their temples with their fingers to relieve themselves temporarily of the acute paroxysms of nervous headache. This temporary pressure, with sufficient force, is all that is required to remove teeth without the least pain.

Some housekeepers act upon the supposition that an addition of the fuel will cause increased combustion, and consequently develope additional warmth. This is an expensive mistake. It is only smothering and retarding the fire to put in a thick layer of coal, or as some do, fill the fire box from a layer of two inches of ignited coal, to its utmost capacity with fresh fuel. No more coal should be put on a fire at one time than will readily ignite and give off a pure white flame—not a blue flame, as that denotes the presence of unconsumed gasses.

In cleaning the grates of coal stoves in the morning there is always to be found a quantity of unburnt coal, which has been externally subjected to combustion, it is covered with ashes, and looks like cinders. It is often dumped into the ash box. The fact is, that the lump is only roasted on the outside not even cooked, and it is in a better condition for igniting than green coal. Never waste it. Attention to these few hints, it is stated, will save many dollars in a winter, The experiment is at least worth trying.

The number of stars visible to the naked eye, in the entire circuit of the heavens, has been usually estimated at about 6,000; an ordinary opera glass will exhibit something like ten times that number; a comparatively small telescope easily shows 200,000; while there are telescopes in existence with which, there is reason to believe, that not less than 25,000,000 stars are visible.

The following is a verbatim copy of a letter recently received by a schoolmaster in Indiana from a householder in his locality: 'Cur, as you are a man of no legs, I wish to intur my sun in your skull.' The obscurity and seeming offensiveness disappear on translation. What was intended to be written was: 'Sir as you are a man of knowledge, I wish to enter my son in your school.'

Massillon, Wednesday, March 27.

Temperance legislation is agitating many of the states. Our own legislature is well warmed upon the subject in consequence of the petitions for and against the laws we now have. Illinois has enacted a sort of mongrel law—very repulsive to thorough temperance men because it proposes to sell crime by demanding license to commit it. On the other hand there are such conditions in this licensing as to make it as bad to the liquor seller almost as prohibition itself, for he is held responsible for all the mischief his liquor begets. The grogsellers are howling over it terribly. Wisconsin is said to be getting up an Ohio temperance law. Pennsylvania has just enacted a local option law—that is, each township or county can vote to have its people drunk or sober. Other states are at work on the same subject, all of which indicates that the liquor business is passing through a severe ordeal—and that prohibition is coming.

Women's rights has manifested itself in a rather unexpected way at New York. One of the larger halls of that city was occupied on last Tuesday evening by some two thousand German women, who met together for the purpose of discussing and hearing arguments in behalf of woman's right to the ballot. Several addresses were made, all by German women, for the accounts says there were probably not a dozen English speaking persons in the hall. The speakers evinced great earnestness in their addresres, to which a large part of the audience heartily responded. It is the common theory that Germans are slow to take hold of new ideas, but when they do engage in any enterprise they go at it with an energy which bodes success. That is what these people mean—they are too practical to throw away their efforts on projects of a visionary nature. The account gives the names of the several speakers, one of whom was a handsome young lady—the others married women of the better class of society. Frau Lillientha is very commendably spoken of as an able advocate, but Miss. Cara Negmann, a yonng lady, was the heroine of the evening. Her address elicited great demonstrations of applause This manifestation is a significant landmark that the idea of woman suffrage is rapidly advancing. Polititicians will observe it and act accordingly.

Pittsburg conference of the M E. church met in Allegheny city on the 13th inst, and adjourned on the 19th being in session six days. Formerly four days has been the time of the sessions of this body, but in addtion to some 250 ministers there were about as many lay delegates, and this is probably the reason of the greater length of the proceedings. Wm. Moffit, Esq, was lay delegate for the Massillon congregation. The conference is divided into ten districts. Bishop Simpson presided. The following are the appointments in Allegheny and Canton districts.

The following excellent resolutions were adopted They speak out manfully in behalf of the temperance cause. One of them—the second—is for prohibition in regard to voting. Let the members and all others, not forget this fact at our elections.

At the session of the Pittsburg M. E. conference, held in Allegheny city, the following was passed as expressing the opinion of the church on temperance.

Believing intemperance to be an evil of great and increasing importance—a great cancer upon the vitals of the nation—productive of misery, disorder and crime—and believing that this, as well as all other questions of moral reform, to succeed, must enlist the hearty sympathy and support of the church, therefore

Resolved, First—We earnestly recommend our preachers, in all congregations, to preach on the subject of temperance, agreeably to the instruction of general conference.

Second—We pledge ourselves to support for political office no man who is not a friend of temperance reform.

Third—We favor the adoption in this state of a law already existing in the state of Ohio, wherein the vender of intoxicating liquors is held responsible for all damage resulting from the use of liquor sold byhim.

Fourth—We greatly desire the passage of the bill now before the legislature of Pennsylvania and Ohio known as the 'Local Option Law.'

Fifth—We are persuaded that the use of fermented wines in the Holy Sacrament is inconsistent with the profession of the church, as well as the teachings of the Bible.

Sixth—We shall continue the agitation of this question until in all our land the manufacture and sale of alcohol as a beverage is regarded as a crime punishable by law.

We hope our citizens will heed the announcement of Miss Clara Ickes, who proposes to teach our juveniles the elements of music. Having devoted much time to receiving thorough instruction in this profession, and being favored with the natural qualifications to be a successful learner and teacher of music, let our people extend to to her that liberal patronage she so well deserves.

Patent Climax Linen Marker with complete set of type, warranted sufficient to set up any name. The marking of an entire family can be done with this insrument, as the type is changed at pleasure. For sale at I S Crooks' news depot.

We are informed that there is a fair prospect of having glass works established at this place. Material of the best quality for making that article is said to be here in abundance, and whoever invests in an establishment of this class will find that the business will be a compensating one.

Mr. Pille, the well known shoe maker, just west of the canal, who has been long and favorably known as a superior mechanic in his branch of business, has removed to one door west of Mr. Nobee's grocery, where he will be found ready at all times to wait on customers.

Prof D M Humer, for many years instructor in penmanship in our union schools, we understand, delivered his valedictory on Monday last, preparatory, we suppose, to taking leave of the school.

A friend requests us to state that for 25 cents adults and children under 15 years old for 10 cents each admission can hear the very interesting lectures of Prof. Dennis in Palestine any evening this week, in the Disciples church.

The Quinquplexals had but a small audience the other night.

On Monday an effort was made by the liquor party in the Ohio state senate to force a premature vote on the temperance law question, but it was defeated by a majority of more than two to one.

Same day a bill passed authorizing Stark county to borrow money for ditching purposes.

Up to March 25, so far as we have been able to ascertain, the number of petitions in favor of modifying the liquor law of Ohio which have been printed to the legislature, are 23,791, and remonstrances against the 62,457—more than two to one on the right side.

Too much importance cannot be attached to electing good men for trustees of our Union Schools. The time for which Mr. Bowman was elected soon expires—an election is to be held on the 8th prox. and perhaps no better man can be selected to fill the position than Mr. B. himself. With his worthy co-workers, Dr. Barrick and Mr J. K. Russell, the welfare of our schools is in safe hands.

In all probability there will be some changes among the teachers for the coming terms, as it is said one will resign her position in consequence of impaired health. Whether other alterations will be made or not we cannot tell—time will develop these things—but it will not be marvlous if such contingencies should transpire—especially if some of these school marms are to be married.

NOT CONSUMPTION.

We have on our books of record, the age, name, residence, date disease and prescription of every case treated by us during the last twenty years. In these books are contained the names of over 100.000 persons, and more than 200.000 prescriptions. In this vast number of cases, every kind and variety of diseases have fallen under our observation, and every form of treatment has been fully tested.

In consumption and lung diseases, we have had ample opportunity to test not only every kind of treatment, but every kind of medicine.

We know that there are many cases of disease that so nearly resemble consumption, but which is not; that without a very careful diagnosis, serious mistakes might be made, which would lead to very prejudicial results in the treatment. It is the duty of every true physician to ascertain as nearly as possible the precise nature of every malady before prescribing. No more certain sign is offered in disease than is found in the urinary secretion, says Simon. And in this disease we are especially favored with indications of the urine, which enables us to determine not only the facts relative to the true nature thereof, but to measure tolerably correctly the extent of the same.

We have thus detected and determined the extent of hundreds of cases of consumption, many of which being incipient only, have been cured by us in a very short time. And whilst we would not hold out inducement or promise a cure, in the last stage of this dreadful malady we would just say, that we have cured many diseases that so nearly resemble consumption, that it was impossible to determine the fact by any other means than by examination of the urinary secretion.

Among these we might mention liver complaint, dyspepsia, heart disease, female weaknesses, &c. These diseases oftentimes much resemble consumption in many particulars. They may come on with cough and expectoration of blood and mucus, pain in the breast and side, heats and chills, followed by weakness, night sweats, &c. These symptoms are taken for consumption, and the patient is informed that the case is hopeless one, when perhaps it was as yet curable as nine tenths of our most common diseases, and when some prompt and efficacious remedy, administered for the real disease, would dispel it in a very short time.

We have cured many cases of this kind, even after they have been abandoned as hopelessly consumptive, by their relatives and friends, as well as the physician. By sending a vial of urine for examination, the necessary medicines can be sent by express.

FOUTZ'S

CELEBRATED

Horse and Cattle Powders.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines.

It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDER, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite—gives a smooth and glossy skin—and transforms the miserable skeleton into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.

In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Ulcers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

Delicate creatures.—This is the phrase applied by His Blackness, the Moor of Venice, to the fair ladies of Italy. It was the lovely complexion of Desdemona, such a radient contrast to his own, that won his heart, and sooth to say, every man of discernment considers a fair skin, like a sweet voice, "an excellent thing in woman." Now this is a charm which can be acquired. There is a healthful and odoriferous toilet article, known everywhere as Hagan's Magnolia Balm, which literally transfigures a cloudy or shallow skin, suffusing the discolored face neck, arms and bosom with a soft, pearly tinge, and imparting to the surface a smoothness and a gloss like that of polished marble. Instead of clogging the pores, like the sticky enamels, or contract astringent cosmetics, it cleanses the skin from all impurities and wonderfully improves its texture. This peculiarity is particularly appreciated by our rural bellies who find that the courseness and roughness, which country air is apt to engender, are speedily removed from their faces, hands and arms, by this delightful preparation.

Once more the surface of the canal is in a fluid state, which is now the case, Tuesday, March 25. It will not be long till boats commence moving, unless it is again blocked up by ice.

No little curiosity was exhibited on Monday, in this city, in consequence of the appearance of an unusually large gentleman, who stopped at the American. His height is over seven feet, and his weight exceeds 500 pounds. He is a well proportioned, fine looking man, and we are informed is traveling on business.

Somebody says the chicken fighters were training their game fowls near the railroad on last Sunday, in readiness for a big fight before many Sundays pass away.

Mr. Brown finds that many of our citizens are much gratified to visit the post office on Sunday, and the half hour is busily spent in waiting on persons in search of post office favors.

The beautiful Sunday was promptly followed on Monday by lowering clouds which brought a most welcome rain, which continued until evening—the present writing.

A good old farmer came to town the other day and seemed to be in a joyous mood, for he said he heard the cooing of doves, which he regards as a sure presage of the nearness of spring. The winter has gone, the rain, we hope, has come, and the voice of the turtle dove is heard in this part of the land

Subscribers changing their residence will please let us know where to find them.

The trial of Welchenbaugh on the charge of manslaughter, for killing George Hofacker, in this place nearly two months ago, was quite tedious, and occupied the attention of the court several days last week A large number of witnesses gave testimony in the case, which was managed on the part of the state by Mr. Lynch, the prosecuting attorney, and R. H. Folger, Esq., of this city. Myers and McKinley for the defense The case is of that class which elicited the best talents of the attorney on both sides, and from what we learn it was ably managed. Up to Monday evening we have not heard what was the verdict. Bolinger's trial will follow.

In the last number of the Advocate, of New Philadelphia, we notice that the contractors on the new railroad have forces of men at work; and so much interest is there taken that that paper says there are few or no loafers to be found in the city, as every man who can do so, is actively at work with pick, shovel, or other implement; and cold as the weather is and hard as is the frozen earth they are making fine progress in grading the road bed. The same kind of work is going on at other points, and when the frozen earth is thawed there will be lively times all along the line. Men who are railroad makers are of the pushing, energetic class—and we shall have another road here by the Fourth of July.

Within the last two weeks considerable agitation has been manifested about the proposal to remove the postoffice from its present location to some room in the opera house. Just what shape the project is in we are not advised, but are informed that Mr Bucher has been at Washington city on that business. Both localities have peculiar advantages. Of course we prefer to let the office remain where it is, but if higher authorities decide otherwise it is not our business to complain.

Next Sunday will witness the demolition of milions of incipient chickens, as Easter seems to be a devoted to eating eggs.

Not a few of our neighbors are circulating the report that the Buckeye State of New Lisbon, has changed hands, and that Mr. Hull lately of the Mahoning Register, is the purchaser. The last number of the Buckeye don't say that, but we notice that the offer to sell the office is not in the paper, and Mr. Hull, as is also Mr R. E. Watson, lately of Minerva, are in town and have been making calls at the printing offices of the place If these gentlemen take charge of that paper they will make it a stirring one.

On Sunday the sun shone out beautifully, and if it had not been for the keen north wind the day would indicate that spring is approaching. Astronomers have been telling the world for some time past about a big black spot on the sun, which may account for the cold weather. Who knows?

Easter is no further off than next Sunday. Much importance is attached to that and some of the immediately preceeding days—such as Good Friday—by various religious bodies, and a great deal of church going is the order of these days. Which is all very well for those who cherish the time with more than ordinary interest We have a broad gauge national constitution which tolerates all these various religious ideas, and no one is permitted to molest or make afraid. And if there are those who choose not to observe these holy days, they are not liable to punishment by any ecclesiastical or temporal power for the sin of omission All have rights in this way which the constitution as it now stands is bound to protect, but if changed, as some contemplate a different state of things would come to pass.

Usually on or about the 21st of March, days before or days after, the weather kicks up a row. This time it was a cold one—the contest between winter and summer resulted, for the time, in favor of the former, as the mercury was almost down to zero on last Thursday morning.

Go to Ricks' for new goods.

The perennial theme of remark, comment, observation and praise or censure, the weather, has since the advent of the present month, afforded, in consequence of its generally repulsive features, a constant subject for discussion. The month came in rough, grew rougher, and as the end nears, is at times assuming the roughest aspects. General drouth, plenty of wind and severity of cold have marked it all the way in this part of the country, while east and west of us heavy snow storms have visited considerable areas of space. Whether April will be different or not the almanac can't foretell with certainty, while old Probabilities is not far enough advanced in meteorology to tell us what is to be the state of the coming month before the end. Of course some will say it is unprecedented—this hard weather for the season—but that is a mistake. In 1858 the mercury at one time reached six degrees below zero in some places in March.

It is DAVID ATWATER—and not D. R. Atwater, as was erroneously printed last week—who has been appointed collector of the Massillon [illegible] so long been in the habit of printing D. R. Atwater that it seems to require a strong effort to change the practice.

A large meeting of ladies in one of the Methodist churches was held lately at St Louis, says the Advance, at which it was recommended that measures be taken to ordain women as ministers of the gospel. And why not? Why, it is claimed that Paul wants them to be quit. But they wont be still. Nearly fifty years ago we heard a Miss Miller preach in the methodist church at New Lisbon, and everybody was pleased with her effort. Since then a good many other women have effectually occupied the Methodist pulpits, St Paul to the contrary notwithstanding.

Somebody expressed a rather decided opinion the other day as to the impropriety of platoons of smokers and chewers standing at corners of the streets, puffing smoke and ejecting saliva, which sometimes has been known to soil dresses of ladies passing by. Very little thought will suggest to a real gentleman the rudeness of the practices complained of; and although both chewing and smoking are reprehensible we have the charity to believe that many accidents arising from these causes are more the result of the want of thought than any desire to offend in the manner complained of. The true method of mending the ways of transgressors in these regards is to quit the use of the weed in any shape. It is not blaspemy to say that God made lips to suck and teeth to chew such nauseous doses as tobacco furnishes?

We are all learners, or we should be, and to obtain desirable information concerning the celebrated city of Jerusalem and its surroundings, it will well compensate the student, no matter at what sacrifice, to go and hear the highly interesting lectures of Prof Dennis, who is now delivering a course at Disciples church. He adapts his style to the comprehension of all, yet fails not to engage the attention of every listener who comes within the range of his voice. Almost everybody has read something of that noted city, which holds such a conspicuous place in history, but when Mr D. comes to delineate its inner life a new interest is awakened, and every one if eager to learn many of the curiosities with which the speaker is familiar.

Some forty packages of various kinds of flowers and vegetables, many of them of rare character, was received at this office the other day from the enterprising house of Briggs Bros, Rochester, N. Y. Their extensive catalogue embraces a very large assortment of rare flowers and vegetables, and they seem prepared to supply any variety of the beautiful or useful in their line.

A State Sunday school convention is to be held at Dayton on the 9th, 10th and 11th of April.

Court has been in session for some weeks and certain transgressors have found by experience that their ways dont lead to flowery beds of ease. Wm Miller, charged with burglary, plead guilty and was sentenced to five years—his second term—in the penitentiary. Several grogsellers have also been made to feel the weight of the hand of justice.

The school committee of Wilmot will receive proposals for erecting a schoolhouse in that place.

Lewis Yokey will offer for sale stock and other property on March 20 near this place.

George Mower's heirs will have a large sale of land and personal property, on Thursday, April 4 in Baughman township, Wayne Co.

Louis Brenner offers for sale horses, cattle and other property, also wheat in the ground, on next Saturday, 1½ miles west of Brookfield.

Critics give Messrs. Hachenberger & Co. the credit for making model cigars—as good as can be had anywhere. They have a well arranged, neat and convenient room, and the firm manifest taste in getting up their work in good style, so that all who use their cigars are pleased with them, and are sure to call the second time. Their room is in Falke's building, east of the park.

Massillon, January 23-442—3 months

Has our worthy mayor, who has for years been elected to office by the republican party, repudiated it? It bears that look, as he announces himself an independent candidate for re-election.

Saturday was a rather rough day for many people to turn out to the republican nomination, and it seemed rather difficult to elicit much enthusiasm. Still the nominations came off, and the result is announced elsewhere. Whether the democrats intend to have a ticket or not does not seem manifest up to Monday—perhaps they prefer an independent ticket.

The question begins to assume form here, and that is, shall Massillon be ruled by a whisky ring

These are the days of our school examinations, and not a few of the friends of education take an interest in what is transpiring at the schoolhouses. No doubt these houses will be well filled with interested listeners and observers of the progress the rising generation are making in acquiring knowledge.

It looked a little odd the other day to see water in the canal, where ice has been the rule during several months. But it was not fluid very long, as the cold air, nearing the region of zero soon put it into the form of ice again. On the lake the ice is reported several feet in thickness.

Work has been commenced on the railroad in West Massillon, the contractors placing a force of hands on active duty on last Monday. That indicates business.

In digging into the earth one day last week one of our citizens reports that he found the earth frozen to the depth of thirty eight inches. That is something very unusual for this latitude, and sounds as though the phenomenon would be much more appropriate somewhere in Greenland.

The railroad engineers have finally located the new road, where it crosses Main st., west of what is called the old Wooster road. This is an improvement on the route proposed some time ago in running it under the west end of the stone bridge, which would be rather low for safety, especially from high water.

Bro. Hinckeley, on last Sunday, began his pastoral services for the third year, at the M E church, an indication that the congregation worshiping there are satisfied with his services. He has many warm friends here.

Bro. Williams, we regret to hear, is not improving in health as fast as his friends could wish. His malady is of a serious nature.

Our old friend, John Hunter, Esq., of Alliance formerly a citizen of Massillon, has recently been appointed one of the trustees of the Central Lunatic Asylum, at Columbus.

Some of our citizens are more than suspicious that certain of the grogshops keep open back doors on Sundays This matter should be looked after, and if there are such violators of law let the penalty come.

One liquor seller has contributed five dollars to the corporation for keeping open his devil spiggots after 9 o'clock at night. Perhaps others should be similarly treated.

It is reported that Hart Post, of this city is again about to place the Union Spy on the stage in a few weeks. Our people seem to like that piece admirably.

A CARD.—Mrs. H. Kale returns thanks to the ladies who so liberally furnished her the means of procuring a sewing machine. In accordance with their wishes, she purchased a Singer's Improved, and finds it as they said, the best machine ever used.

H. KALE.

At Steubenville they have a chain gang—that is, the mischievous loafers who wont work, and are annoying other people unlawfully have a chain hitched to one of their legs, with a ball or heavy weight at the other end of the chain, and thus uniformed they are set at work and made useful in fixing the streets.

Mr. Tilton is down on the idea of painting angels with wings, as these appendages would be much in the way. He thinks it is a human invention, and that the angels know nothing about quills and feathers—but the poor painters, he states, hang on to the wings, while the Sunday school children are singing, I want to be an angel, with the idea that they are to fly about in heaven like eagles. This is but one of the poetic inventions of other days—there are plenty more of the same sort.

Holloway's Pills and Ointment.—Scrofula was considered incurable until the great discovery of "Holloway's Pills and Ointment" flashed upon the world. Diseases will baffle the medical schools, remedies yield to these peerless remedies. Scurvy, Erysipelas, Saltrheum, Itch, and all cutaneous eruptions are curable by them. 25 cents per box or pot.

Dead men tell no tales: If they did, anathemas against the depleting lancet, the drastic purge, and the terrible salivants of the materia medica, would arise from every graveyard. The motto of modern medical science is Preserve and regulate, not destroy, and no remedy of our day is so entirely in harmony with this philanthropic logic as Dr. Walker's Vegetable Vinegar Bitters In this powerful, yet harmless restorative, dyspepsia, bilious complaints, and all diseases of the liver, stomach, bowels and nerves, encounter an irresistable antidote. 4w

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women were especially subject, it is superceding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermine the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. 444-y

Beautiful Woman!

Hagan's Magnolia Balm gives the complexion the freshness of youth.

Hagan's Magnolia Balm overcomes the flushed appearance caused by heat, fatigue and excitemant. It makes the lady of forty appear but twenty, and so natural and perfect that no person can detect its application. By its use the roughest skin is made to rival the pure, radiant texture of youthful beauty. It removes redness, blotches, and pimples. It contains nothing that will injure the skin in the least. Magnolia Balm is used by all fashionable ladies in N York, London and Paris. It costs only 75 cents a bottle, and is sold by all druggists and dealers. 445 1y

What Dyspepsia May End In.

Indigestion is not dangerous say the faculty. Perhaps not in itself, while it remains indigestion; but look at the consequences to which it may lead, and often does lead when it becomes a chronic disease. A spark of fire is a small thing. A pressure of the foot will put it out; a breath will extinguish it. Yet it may fire a powder mill, or kindle a flame that will consume a city In like manner indigestion may produce gastritis, cancer of the stomach, congestion of the bowels, apoplexy, liver disease, and many other dangerous maladies. Is it not wise then, to check it in the germ? Nothing is more clearly and indisputably established than that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will eradicate dyspepsia in all its stages. The true policy, however, is to extinguish it in the first stages, with this wholesome, powerful, and infallable tonic and alterative. It is easier to quench a spark than a flame, and it is easier to cure dyspepsia when it first developes, than when it has made headway by neglect, and become complicated with other ailments. There is not the shadow of a doubt that the bitters are as directly antagonistic to dyspepsia as water is to fire. There are thousands of cases on record proving this fact. The remedy is safe and agreeable. All the liquors of commerce prescribed as stimulants leave a sting behind. But the sting is taken out of the spirituous basis of this great remedy by vegetable medication, and moreover, the stimulant thus medicated is of exceptional purity. Of all tonics taken as safeguards or remedies for fever and ague, bilious remittents, and other epidemics, it is the only one that can uniformly be depended on.

JURUBEBA

WHAT IS IT?

It is a sure and perfect remedy for all diseases of the liver and spleen, enlargement or obstruction of intestines, urinary, uterine, or abdominal organs, poverty or a want of blood, intermittent or remittent fevers, inflamation of the liver, dropsy, sluggish circulation of the blood, abscesses, tumors, jaundice, scrofula, dyspepsia, ague and fevers or their concomittants.

sent a special commission to that country to procure it in its native purity, and having found its wonderful curative properties to even excell the anticipations formed by its great reputation, has concluded to offer it to the public, and is happy to state that he has perfected arrangements for a regular monthly supply of this wonderful plant. He has spent much time in experimenting and investigating as to the most efficient preparation from it, for popular use, and has for some time used in his own practice with most happy results the effectual medicine now presented to the public as

Dr Wells' Extract of Jurubeba.

And he confidently recommends it to family as a household remedy which be freely taken as a blood purifier in rangements of the system and to a and fortify all weak and lymphatic temperaments. PRESS DEAD HEADS.

Railroads occasionally complain of the dead heads, but no institution suffers so much from it as the press. A sensible writer says: 'The press endures the affliction of dead headism from the pulpit, the bar and the stage; from corporations, societies and individuals. The press is expected to yield its interests; is required to give strength to the weak, eyes to the blind, clothes to the naked, and bread to the hungry; it is asked to cover infirmities, hide weakness and wink at quacks, bolster up dull authors and flatter the vain; it is, in short, to be all things to all men, and if it looks for pay or reward it is denounced as mean and sordid. There is no interest under the whole heavens that is expected to give so much to society, without pay or thanks as the newspaper press.'

SPIRITUAL FACTS.

That whisky is the key by which many gain an entrance into our prison and alms houses.

That brandy brands the noses of all who cannot govern their appetites.

That wine causes many to take a winding way home.

That punch causes many unfriendly punches.

That ale causes many ailings and beer brings many to the bier,

That champaigne is the cause of many real pains.

That gin slings have slewed more than the slings of old.

That the reputation of being fond of cocktails is not a feather in any man's cap.

That the money spent for port, which is supplied by portly gents, would support many a poor family.

That porter is a weak support for those that are weak in body.

YOUNG MEN.

The thing for every young man to strive for, if he is ambitious of pecuniary success in this world specially in business. No matter what trade or profession he may choose, let him adopt some particular department in which to render himself famous. He may render himself necessary to these who employ his services, and thus receive his own price for that which he does particularly well. Without this special superiority, he comes into competition with the great mediocrity, and must expect a mediocre return. The pleasant eminence of excellence, however, isn't to be gained by wishing merely. It requires good hard work, and plenty of it. The world does not pay people for being idle, nor for that which is idly done. There is labor to be done after they are learned, and the beginner should never flinch from it, for it is only by his own exertions that he can attain the specialty that is to bring him future honors, and better yet, future gold.

WHY SOME ARE POOR.

Cream is allowed to mould and spoil. Silver spoons are used to scrape kettles. The scrubbing brush is left in the water. Nice handled knives are thrown into hot water. Brooms are never hung up and soon spoiled. Dish cloths are thrown where the mice can destroy them. Tubs are left in the sun to dry and fall apart. Clothes are left on the line to whip to pieces by the wind. Pie crust is left to sour instead of making a few tarts for tea. Dried fruit is not taken care of in season, and becomes wormy. Vegetables are thrown away that would warm for breakfast. The cork is left out of the sugar jar and flies take possession. Bits of meat are thrown out that would make hash. Coffee, tea, pepper, and spices are left to stand open and lose strength. Pork spoils for the want of salt, and beef because the brine wants scalding.

Speaking of theoretical farming Josh Billings says he once knew a man who wouldn't even set a gate post without having the earth analyzed to see if it possessed the proper ingredients for post holes.

A little girl asked her sister what was chaos, that her papa read so much about? The elder replied, 'It was a great pile of nothing, and no place to put it in.

The Yankee who was lying at the point of death, whittled it off with his jack knife, and is now recovering.

In the case of the death of a man apparently by suicide, a member of the coroner's jury replied on being asked to give his opinion:—'Oh, there haint the least mossel of doubt in my mind of the critter's guilt.

A monument has been erected to Wm. Penn, in Lancaster County, Pa., on the spot where he held conferences with the Shawana chieftains.

A Maine man is getting out 200 cords of birch timber and cutting it up for wooden heels for a Boston firm. His order is for 150 000 heels in rough. The heels are attached to the boot or shoe in this wise: A piece of leather about a quarter of an inch thick is fitted to the bottom of the wooden heel, and a screw passes through the leather and wood into a metallic plate which is nailed to the outer sole. In this way a man can change his boot heels in a moment.

EPILEPSY OR FITS.

A SURE CURE for this distressing complaint is now made known in a Treatise (of 48 octavo pages) on Foreign and Native Herbal Preparations, published by DR. O. PHELPS BROWN. The prescription was discovered by him in such a providential manner that he cannot conscientiously refuse to make it known, as it has cured every body who has used it for Fits, never having failed in a single case. The ingredients may be obtained from any druggist. Persons desiring a copy may address DR. O. PHELPS BROWN, No. 21 Grand Street, Jersey City, N. J., and it will be sent by return mail, free.

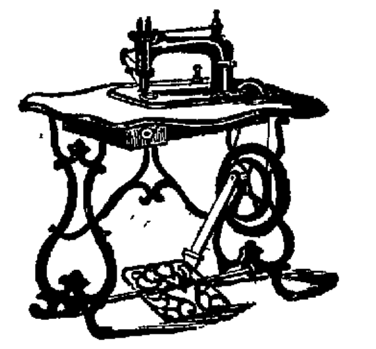
THE IMPROVED AMERICAN:



Button-Hole, Overseaming,

—AND—

Complete Sewing Machine.

The first and only Button-hole and Sewing machine combined that has made its advent in this or any other country.

Family Machine to Purchase

1. Because it will do everything that any machine can do, sewing from the finest to the coarsest material, hemming, felling, cording, braiding, binding, gathering and sewing on at the same time, ruffling, quilting, &c., better than any other machine.

2. Because the tensions are more easily adjusted than any other machine.

3. Because it can make a beautiful button hole, making as fine a pearl as by hand.

4. Because it will embroider over the edge, making a neat and beautiful border on any garment.

5. Because it will make a beautiful eyelet hole.

6. Because it can do overhand seaming, by which sheets, pillow cases, and the like are sewed over and over.

7. Because you can quickly raise or lower the feed to adapt it to thick or thin cloth.

8. Because you have a short deep bobbin by which the thread is constantly drawn from the center; the tension is consequently even and does not break the thread.

9 Because the presser foot turns back; that the cloth can be easily removed after being sewed.

10. Because the best mechanics pronounce it the best finished and made on the best principle of any machine manufactured.

11. Because it has a better shuttle than any other machine.

12. Because it runs easier and quicter than any other heavy machine.

13. Because it is two machines in one—a button hole working and sewing machine combined.

It is to last a lifetime, and therefore one is wanted that will do the most work, and do it the best, and this machine can do several kinds of sewing not done on any other machine, besides doing every kind that all others can do.

The American or Plain Sewing Machine

Is a beautiful family and light manufacturing machine, possessing all the superior qualities of the combined machine, except making button holes and overseaming. In all other respects the principal of construction is the same.

These Machines are Warranted.

A REGULAR GRADUATE OF MEDICINE, AS DIPloma at office will show, has been longer engaged in the treatment of Venereal, Sexual and Private Diseases than any other physician in Pittsburg.

Syphilis, Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, Hernia or Rupture; all Urinary Diseases and Syphilitic or Mercurial Affections of the Throat, Skin or Bones are treated with unparalleled success.

Spermatorrhea, Sexual Debility and Impotency, as the result of self-abuse in youth, sexual excesses in maturer years, or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects, as nocturnal emissions, blotches, debility, dizziness, dimness of sight, confusion of ideas, evil forebodings, aversion to society of females, loss of memory and sexual power rendering marriage improper, are permanently cured. Sealed pamphlet relating to above sent for two stamps. Call or write, a friendly talk costs nothing. Medicine sent everywhere. It is self evident that a physician who treats thousands of cases every year acquires skill. Country physicians knowing this frequently recommend persons to my care.
